England Rugby Stars Christmas Lunch Wednesday 17th December 2008, Café Royal London

The National Sporting Club will join forces with the Anthony Nolan Bone Marrow Trust in organising an England Rugby Stars Christmas Lunch at the Café Royal on Wednesday 17th December 2008. Former England and British Lions players Martin Bayfield, Will Greenwood, Richard Hill and Mike Catt will be telling some of their favourite ribald rugby stories and funds will be raised for one of the nation's most popular and worthwhile charities.

MARTIN BAYFIELD is a former policeman who is now a talented after dinner speaker and body double for Hagrid in the Harry Potter films. He played 31 times for England and gained 3 British Lions caps.

WILL GREENWOOD played for Leicester and Harlequins and gained 55 England caps and went on three Lions tours. He was joint record try scorer in England's successful World Cup campaign in 2003 and is now a successful broadcaster and journalist.

RICHARD HILL has just retired after fifteen years at Saracens. He played 71 times for his country and gained five British Lions caps. He was an immense force in England's World Cup win in 2003 with impressive performances against France in the Semi Final and Australia in the Final.

MIKE CATT has recently retired from International Rugby with the honour of being the oldest ever player to play in a Rugby World Cup Final, aged 36. Throughout his international career he earned 75 caps for England and 1 for the British Lions and was part of the 2003 World Cup Winning Team. He is currently still playing for London Irish.
